PREFACE

THE present is the first attempt that has been made to prepare a Biographical Catalogue of Washington and Jefferson College. In 1872 a General Catalogue was published, but it contained little besides a list of names. The present work has been one of great difficulty, from the fact that so little has been done to preserve the history of the classes. Very largely, even the Annual Catalogues have been lost, and no class histories had been written, with few exceptions, until a comparatively late day.

Jefferson College covers a period of sixty-four years, from 1802 to 1865, Washington a period of sixty years, from 1806 to 1865, with very little attempt to perpetuate their histories.

Alumni Associations have existed at various times, but have not been of long continuance. A reorganization was effected in 1884, with Rev. John M. Barnett as Secretary, and A. M. Todd, Esq., as Corresponding Secretary. It was then decided to publish an Annual that should contain the Class Histories of each successive year, and in this way preserve the histories of the classes. It was also resolved to publish a Biographical Catalogue of the original and the united institutions.

The secretaries then prepared a circular calling for information, and sent it to the Alumni and their friends, as far as their addresses could be obtained. Two years ago the undersigned was appointed to co-operate with the Executive Committee and to undertake the preparation of the Catalogue. The latter work commenced in November, 1886. Up to that time 1,030 circulars had been received. Since then the Secretary, Mr. Barnett, and the undersigned have put forth vigorous efforts to secure the data of the remaining 2,424 Alumni. In this we have been assisted by the present Corresponding Secretary, James I. Brownson, Jr., Esq.

In the matter of collecting the data of the old students, we have been successful beyond our most sanguine hopes. Of the entire number of the Aumni (3,455), data has been secured, in greater or less fullness, of over ninety-eight per cent. of the whole.

It is greatly to the credit of these venerable institutions, that of Jefferson, with 1,936 Alumni, only twenty have been so utterly lost to history as to be wholly untraceable; and of Washington, with 872 Alumni, only fifteen have passed out of all knowledge of the biographer. Some of a later day in Washington and Jefferson College, can be found, but either neglected or declined giving any points in their histories, and appear blank in the Catalogue.

The plan has been to enroll only graduates, and such undergraduates as afterward received honorary degrees. The latter are designated by A. B. and A.M.; and as A.M. was for many years given to all graduates who had studied a profession, no degrees are mentioned in the body of the work below Ph.D., except such as were conferred on undergraduates.

As the Catalogue is now presented, there is a grand array of names of men famous in the history of the Church and of the country—men who attained to the highest positions in the land, and who were, and are, a mighty power for good. Their influence has been felt in every part of our wide country.

Thanks are hereby tendered to Class Historians for their labors, and to friends and sympathizers with this undertaking, for most valuable aid in gathering data, and furnishing it most cheerfully.

Mistakes will, no doubt, be found in many instances, but there has been the desire to make the work as perfect and reliable as possible.

With these brief remarks the Catalogue is commended to the old students of Jefferson, and Washington, and Washington and Jefferson, and their friends, trusting that it will revive old associations, shed light on the histories of old friendships, and classmates, and reflect credit on our common Alma Mater.

Franklin, Pa., January 1, 1889. S. J. M. Eaton.

Almost thirteen years have passed since the Catalogue prepared by Dr. Eaton was issued. The desire for a revision and continuation of the work has been growing among the Alumni and friends of the College. The Board of Trustees have at different times had the matter under consideration, and more than a year ago decided to mark the approaching centennial of the college by the publication of a catalogue covering the one hundred years of its existence as an incorporated institution. To me they assigned the task of carrying into effect their design. The result is submitted with the hope that the perusal of these pages will give pleasure to the former students, and strengthen their affection for the institution to which they owe so much.

Washington, Pa., September 27, 1902. Henry Woods.

Brief Historical Notice

THE early settlers of Western Pennsylvania, like those of New England, were distinguished for their love of religion and of learning. They planted the church and the school-house side by side. The first ministers who were settled in this region, early directed their attention to the raising up of a ministry at home, for the supply of the wants of the growing population. For this purpose, mainly, several of them opened classical schools, in log-cabins near their own dwellings. The Rev. Messrs. JOHN M'MILLAN, JOSEPH SMITH and THADDEUS DOD, pastors of the congregations of Chartiers, Buffalo and Ten Mile, had such schools in operation between the years 1780 and 1790. The first of these men, if not the earliest, as is commonly believed, was the most efficient in this good work; and his "Latin School" has gained the most celebrity, from its intimate connection with the origin of Jefferson College. The Canonsburg Academy was commenced in 1791, under the patronage of COL. CANON, and Judges ALLISON, M'DOWELL, and others. To this the pupils under the care of Dr. M'MILLAN were soon afterward transferred.

The first Principal of the Academy was Mr. DAVID JOHNSTON, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. He was assisted by Mr. (afterward Prof.) SAMUEL MILLER, as Teacher of Mathematics. During the ensuing eleven years the Academy continued to prosper, under various competent instructors, among whom were Messrs. JAMES CARNAHAN, afterward President of Princeton College, and JOHN WATSON, afterward first President of Jefferson College. In 1802 it was regularly chartered and organized as a College, being the first west of the mountains.

During its existence as an Academy, the course of instruction which it afforded was but little less extensive than that of the colleges of that day in the East. Here many of the most distinguished men in the Western country received their education, and may be ranked among the honored Alumni of the institution, although their names do not appear as graduates under the college charter. Among them we find the well-known names of Cephas Dod, Elisha M'Curdy, Thos. E. Hughes, Thomas Marquis, Robert Johnson, Joseph Stockton, Samuel Tait, James Satterfield, Obadiah Jennings, D.D., Wm. Neill, D.D., James Ramsey, D.D., James Hoge, D.D., Thos. M'Giffin, Esq., Joseph Patterson, Esq., Hon. Geo. Torrence, Gilbert M'Master, D.D., James Power, M.D., and many others.*

*An extended and excellent History of Jefferson College, by the Rev. Joseph Smith, D.D., author of "Old Redstone," was published in 1857, in which the Alumni and friends of the institution will find an accurate and full account of the life of the College up to that daie.

Historical Notice

WASHINGTON ACADEMY, from which WASHINGTON COLLEGE sprang, was chartered by the Legislature, Sept. 24, 1787—five years after the town of Washington was laid out, and six years after the establishment of Washington County, which was the first county formed after the Declaration of Independence, and only second to Westmoreland, the Mother County of the West. The act of incorporation names the following persons as its first Trustees, in the following order: REV. JOHN M'MILLAN, REV. JOSEPH SMITH, REV. THADDEUS DODD, REV. JNO. CLARK, REV. MATTHEW HENDERSON, REV. JNO. CORBLEY, JAS. MARSHALL, JAMES EDGAR, JOHN M. MCDOWELL, ALEXANDER WRIGHT, JAMES ALLISON, THOMAS SCOTT, DAVID BRADFORD, JAMES ROSS, DAVID REDDICK, JOHN HOGE, ALEXANDER ADDISON, THOMAS CROOKS, JAMES FLANNAGAN, DR. ALEXANDER BAIRD and JAMES BRICE.

The Academy received, by a provision in its charter, a donation of five thousand acres out of the public lands of the State, the value of which at the time was twenty cents per acre. This land was taken chiefly in what is now Beaver County. For a long time it was unproductive, and involved the Board in much expense, but was eventually sold and the proceeds judiciously applied in carrying on the Institution.

After much effort, the Academy was put in operation in 1789, under REV. THADDEUS DODD, who, in 1782, had opened, within his pastoral charge on Ten Mile, what its friends claim was "the first classical and scientific school in the West."

For the accommodation of the Academy, the upper rooms of the Court House were rented, and served the purpose until the building was destroyed by fire. This drove the Board to the erection of an Academy building, which is still standing, being the central stone building of the old College. In that building, and in the temporary structure which preceded it, David Johnston, James Dobbins, Benjamin Mills, and others, carried on the Academy with varying success during the years preceding its transformation into a College.

In the spring of 1805, REV. MATTHEW BROWN became at once Principal of the Academy and the first pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Washington. He was assisted as Principal first by DAVID ELLIOTT, and afterward by GEORGE BAIRD; and such was the success of the Institution, under their management, that, on the 28th of March, 1806, an act was passed by the Legislature granting the Trustees the charter of a College.

The minutes of the Trustees have no record of the graduates, until a meeting held Sept. 27, 1831. This list of the Alumni was prepared by Thomas H. Elliott, M.D., after very great research and labor, and is believed to be entirely correct. It is certainly by far the most accurate ever yet published.

At the semi-centennial anniversary in 1856, a very full historical address was delivered by Rev. James I. Brownson, D.D., of the class of 1836. Most of the above is quoted from that address.

* By the terms of the agreement with the Synod of Wheeling, the members of the Board were to resign, and their places to be filled from the nominees of the Synod, except a quorum, who were to resign in like manner one year thereafter. The College was taken into the official connection with the Synod, November 9, 1852, when, as will be seen, a large number did resign; many of these, however being nominees of the Synod, were immediately re-elected and took their seats. The same regulation included also the Faculty, which will explain the resignation and the immediate re-election of Professors Alrich Murray and McKennan, on the next day, November 10, 1852.

† Did not take his seat till September 27, 1842.

From the Union of the Colleges until the present time

Historical Sketch

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON COLLEGE owes its origin to the union of the two colleges, which was effected in 1865. Attempts to unite them had been made as early as 1807 and 1815. The latter attempts resulting not only in failure, but bitter feeling, neither Board of Trustees made any advances, until both were forced to consider the matter by their financial condition at the close of our civil war, and by the demands of alumni and friends. The income of the two institutions was insufficient to meet the increased expenses of living caused by the war, and efforts to increase the endowments were unavailing, because of the widespread conviction that there should be but one college instead of two rivals.

September 27, 1864, a convention of joint alumni met in Pittsburg, adopted earnest resolutions calling on the Boards of Trustees to unite the institutions. The Rev. Dr. C. C. Beatty, of Steubenville, had previously made an offer of $50,000, when the colleges should be united. The two Boards then agreed upon the plan of union, substantially as suggested by the convention of joint alumni, and, embodying it in the form of an act, petitioned the Legislature to pass it. This was done, and the act is dated March 4, 1865. The act provided for a Board of Trustees of thirty-one members, fifteen of whom should be chosen by the Board of each college, and the thirty-first member by the thirty. The plan of union provided that Sophomore, Junior and Senior Classes should be at Canonsburg; and the Freshman Class, a Scientific Department and Preparatory Department at Washington. The Faculty was correspondingly divided, the President and professors for the three upper classes being located at Canonsburg, and Vice-President and other professors at Washington. As early as 1868 it became evident to all that a more perfect consolidation was essential to the successful conduct of the College. A committee of the Board of Trustees reported April 8, 1868, that they, "in common with all the members of this Board who were members of the old Boards of Jefferson and Washington, are fully aware that the existing organization was brought about under what was sincerely believed to be a necessity, and under a belief that time and effort would render it successful. The motives and purposes were good, and the prospect, at least, hopeful; but the Committee are constrained to say that, after three years of the best directed efforts of which this Board were capable, aided by the President and other friends of the College, the scheme has proved a failure. And we entirely concur in the conclusion expressed by the President, that further effort to secure additional endowment upon the present basis of organization will be unavailing, because of the almost entire want of public confidence in the plan and workings of the union provided for by our charter. That some radical change is imperatively demanded for the continued existence and usefulness of the College is, in the opinion of your Committee, a deduction from existing embarrassments which is irresistible; but what that change should be, your Committee do not feel themselves able or warranted, owing to the short time allowed for consideration, to recommend. At present they can only submit to the Board for adoption, the following resolutions, viz.:

"'Resolved: That a committee of six be appointed by the President, to whom the whole subject of devising a proper remedy for existing defects of organization be referred, with instructions to report to the meeting of the Board in August next.

"'JAMES VEECH,
"'A. W. ACHESON,
"'JAMES MCCULLOUGH,
"'JAS. I. BROWNSON,
"'JAMES ALEXANDER.'"

The report was adopted, and the committee appointed consisted of Messrs. Sterrett, Veech, Sherrard, Acheson, McDaniel and McMillan.

This committee reported to the Board Aug. 5, 1868, a plan of consolidation, providing a mode of determining the place where the consolidated college should be finally located. Their plan was adopted by the Board, and Judges Sterrett and Veech appointed a committee to secure an act of the Legislature authorizing the Board to carry out the plan. The principal features of the plan are incorporated in the act, which was passed Feb. 26, 1869. The following is a quotation from the act:

"SECTION 1. Be it enacted, etc., That as soon as the necessary preliminary arrangements can be made and suitable buildings provided, the several departments of Washington and Jefferson College shall be closely united, and located either at Canonsburg, Washington or some other suitable place within this Commonwealth, to be selected and fixed in the manner hereinafter specified.

"SECTION 2. The location of the College shall be determined by the Board of Trustees by a vote of no less than two-thirds of the members present at a regular meeting, or at a special meeting called for that purpose, if they can agree; and if they can not agree within sixty days after the passage of this act, the question of location shall be referred to a commission of five gentlemen, who shall visit Canonsburg and Washington and such other places as they may deem advisable, inquire into the condition and value of the College property, receive offers of donations and contributions to the College, hear those who may be interested and desire to say anything on the question submitted to them, and after obtaining all necessary information within their reach, and taking into consideration all the advantages and disadvantages of each locality, and everything that may have a bearing upon the future prosperity and welfare of the College, and the advancement of liberal education, they, or any four of them, shall report to the Board of Trustees, in writing, where, in their judgment, the College shall be located; and thereupon the Board of Trustees shall proceed with as little delay as possible to carry into effect their recommendation. In determining, or endeavoring to determine, the location of the College, the Board of Trustees shall proceed in the same manner and consider the same matters as above provided for in the case of the commission."

In accordance with the provisions of this act, the Board of Trustees met April 20, 1869, and by the requisite two-thirds vote located the College at Washington, influenced doubtless, to some extent, by the subscription of $50,000 by the citizens of Washington.

The legality of their action was thoroughly tested by suits in the Supreme Court of the State, and the Supreme Court of the United States, the decisions in both cases sustaining the action of the Board.

NOTE

In the record of an individual, where the residence is given with the State, and changes follow in the same State, the name of the State is not repeated. An interrogation point indicates uncertainty as to the fact set forth. A.B. and A.M. attached to a name, indicates that the person did not graduate with his class, but was a regular student, and afterward received his degree at the date indicated. Where a name is followed by a blank, the history of the person could not be found, or he declined giving his record.

SUPPLEMENT

containing

NON-GRADUATE MEMBERS

Washington and Jefferson College

During its First Century

1802—1902

PREFACE

This supplement was intended to include the names of all students who matriculated in the College and did not finish the course. The names had to be gathered from the annual catalogues. No other record of non-graduates was kept. Unfortunately the files of catalogues of both Jefferson and Washington Colleges are incomplete. As a consequence, many names of former students do not appear. The names of non-graudates are given with the class in which they were found in the annual catalogues, and with which they would have graduated. This could not be done in the case of some who were classed as irregular students. It was found difficult to get biographical items for this part of the catalogue, as the addresses of the great majority were unknown. Such items as could be procured are given. When no information has been obtained, the name and address are recorded as they are found in the annual catalogues. Some of these graduated at other colleges. Not a few of them have attained distinction in both professional and business life, who owe all their college training to this institution. The record of their life work will tend to show how widely the influence of the College has extended.

HENRY WOODS.

INDEX

In the index references are to the class and not to the page. The family name is printed only once, and under it the given names are arranged in alphabetical order. The letter "J" before the year indicates a student of Jefferson College. Students of Washington College and of the United College are designated by the year without any prefix. All classes before 1866 are Washington classes, and all classes after 1865 are Washington and Jefferson classes. The letter "p" following the given name indicates a partial student, and his record is to be sought in the Supplement.
